State of the City Celebrates Work of Staff, Local Organizations

Mayor Joe Hardy delivered his first State of the City Address on Thursday night to a crowd of more than 170 people at Boulder Creek Golf Course Pavilion. His message, "Together We Serve," focused on the efforts of Boulder City's volunteers. He applauded many organizations for their efforts, including Emergency Aid, Lend a Hand, the BC Chamber of Commerce and Boulder City schools. He also thanked Boulder City's employees for their efforts, running through a list of departments and their successes in 2022. Special thanks to the City Clerk's Office (Tami McKay, Teena Pickens, Stacey Brownfield and Bridgette Rodriguez) for their work organizing and decorating, to Detective Sgt. Tiffany Driscoll for (beautifully) singing the National Anthem, and Cantor Phillip Goldstein of Congregation Shirat Shalom for delivering the invocation. The address was live streamed and recorded by BCTV staff. It will be posted on YouTube later this week, as well as on www.bcnv.org/SOTC.
