How does Budget Billing work?

Boulder City's Budget Billing averages your last 12 months of utility costs and enables you to pay the exact same amount on a monthly basis. This helps by building credit when bills are low and paying the same amount when bills are high. The budget billing amount is adjusted yearly to accurately project your monthly payment.

You will still receive a monthly bill that shows:

- Meter readings for the month
- Charges for the amount of utility services used
- Exact costs that would normally be due
- The Budget Billing amount currently due
- Budget Billing amount may be adjusted according to consumption pattern at the City's discretion.
- Every October budget billing accounts will be settled. You will receive a bill for October plus or minus any balances from your budget balance

Service location changes require any remaining balances on the EPP account to be paid in full.
