

Police Retirements and a Promotion

Boulder City Police Department held a ceremony for three retirements and one promotion today at City Hall, with dozens of family and friends in attendance:

Sgt. Craig Tomao retired after 27+ years of dedicated service. He held many positions including Detective, Field Training Officer and Explorer Advisor. "His leadership, professionalism, and commitment to public safety have left an indelible mark on both the department and the community," said Chief Tim Shea. Sgt. Tomao will work as a marshal after the PERS-required time-off period. His son, Domenic, a Henderson police officer, pinned his marshal badge on him.

Officer Alan Nutzman, K9 handler, retired after 20 years of exemplary service. "His steadfast dedication and partnership with K9 Luna have been instrumental in ensuring the success and safety of countless operations," Shea said.

Police K9 Luna also retired after eight years of loyal and courageous service due to medical reasons. She and Ofc. Nutzman assisted in the peaceful surrender of suspects, the takedowns of violent suspects and seizures of pounds of illegal narcotics. Luna will live out her retirement in the care of her handler, Officer Nutzman, and his family.

Detective Bret Hood was promoted to the rank of Sergeant. His badge was pinned by Sgt. Craig Tomao, whose position he takes. Sgt. Tomao received his Sergeant badge from the sergeant that preceded him.

Best wishes to them all!!!
