As of March 18, more than 6,000 doses had been delivered in Boulder City, with 2,900 people receiving at least one dose. “Boulder City has had a great success rate, getting nearly 20-percent of the residents vaccinated to date,” said Boulder City Fire Chief Will Gray. “Even better is our rate with the 65+ residents. We’ve provided at least one dose to more than 60-percent of this age group so far.”
