Boulder City Goes Virtual for National Night Out

Boulder City Police and Fire Departments invite residents to celebrate National Night Out (NNO) safely and virtually in their neighborhoods and homes this year. The departments have launched videos to show residents some of the popular stops for kids: the Boulder City Fire Department Ladder (Engine 121) and Police Department Mounted Unit. The decision came to cancel the in-person NNO event as cases of COVID increased and fully-vaccinated rates remain under 60 percent for residents. “We are still gravely concerned about our residents – especially elderly and immunocompromised,” said Boulder City Police Chief Tim Shea. “In addition to protecting residents, I also have staff concerns. As a small department, we don’t have the manpower in public safety to chance any exposures to the virus.” Digital Technician

Holly Webb and Communications Specialist Carly Poindexter worked to create the videos, now posted on YouTube and broadcasting on BCTV starting Thursday, September 30:

Thank you!!!

Thank you to all who celebrated with us on Wednesday, September 29 during the Employee and Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon! During the event, we recorded a video for Nevada PEP, a non-profit that supports families of children with disabilities. Boulder City was asked to collaborate on the annual “I Care We Care” statewide event, recognizing October as National Bullying Prevention Month. Many of you participated in the “Kindness can be Everywhere!” video. You can see the video as well as other messages on the Nevada PEP website at https://nvpep.org/icwc\_map/ - in Clark County, click on the fourth bus from the top in the middle row. Thank you for helping us raise awareness about bullying prevention!!
